tangible changes in social structure, institutions, marked by urbanisation, secularization etc.

Such emergence of modernity is linked back to enlightenment and renaissance which marks a shift from 'dark ages'. It led to emergence of nationalism, scientism through which rejected earlier traditional ideas.

This is well reflected in intellectual writings of 'John Locke' - focussing on natural rights, 'Rousseau' - argued for general will of people.

Such intellectual enlightenment is aided by various revolutions which brought significant changes and challenges in society

→ Emergent sociology

Further such revolution led to spread of democratic values which induced revolution & crisis of modernity in different places.

(Eg) Indian freedom struggle influenced by liberty, equality, fraternity.

In this respect, S.N. Eisenstadt argued the concept of multiple modernities which emerged at different places in different forms, necessitating a separate sociological discipline to understand such changes.

Such origin of sociological thought became mature in reaching USA.

Reformist orientation in USA used it to solve crisis of modernity.

(Eg) W.E.B. Dubois focused on racial issues and Albion Pack worked on issue of urbanization.

However certain conservative like Joseph de Maistre and Louis de Bonald linked crisis of modernity to disruption of old order and argued for establishment of it.

Despite such notions, crisis of modernity in form of poverty, slum etc required separate discipline. Such crisis are visible today as climate irregularities, terrorism etc.

3.c) Describe the utility of Historical method in social science research. What are its limitations. (10 marks) of literature, art and other chronological items to study social context in research.

Utility of Historical method

- ① helps to understand emergence and origin of social institutions.
(Eg) emergence of caste is linked to historical analysis of agrarian.
- ② It provides detail about social phenomenon that shaped the context. (Eg) Weber in his theory of protestant ethics & spirit of capitalism analysed teaching of St. Calvus. Later on compared with different past religion to understand social context.
- ③ Details in historical insights provide picture of present & future (Eg) Marx theory on historical materialism.

provide us about evolution of human history through different stages.

- ④ Historical method helps in understanding modern social complexities & changes.

However, it has certain limitations

- ① Lack of validity - As it is based on data which is often distorted in peruse of time.
- ② Different fact across kingdom.
Eg) link of capitalism to economic development by marx and religion by weber. It might lead to conflict between researchers.
- ③ Missing details will result in assumptions in sociological research.
- ④ Difficult to decipher like IVC script are not yet deciphered.

Therefore, though historical analysis and sociological research, it has certain challenges as well.

Development → refers to qualitative growth and increase in job opportunities as per Amartya Sen.

modernization does not lead to development

① Gunnar Myrdal argued that it is not modernization, rather state intervention that led to development

(Eg) Indian govt. intervention in 1991 → LPR policy.

② Dependency theorist also argued that developed nations under the mask of modernization are exploiting underdeveloped nations.

(Eg) work at lower cost in least developed countries.

- ③ Anthony Giddens argued modernization reflects half reality, in true sense traditional notion of patriarchy still continue, undermining development.
- ④ Gail Omvedt also argued modernisation may lead to development but ignores subaltern section of society.
- ⑤ Pareto linked it to development of elites i.e. selective development.

However, modernization leads to development as seen below :->

- ① Gold Thorpe → country that were colonised has high level of modernization like railways than uncolonised economies.

(Eg) India, Australia

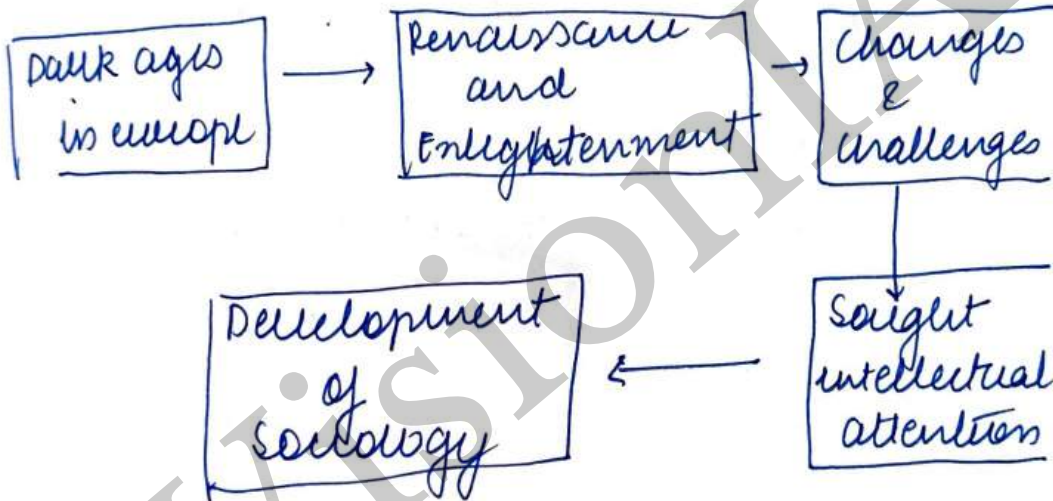

- ② modernization provides opportunity of cultural diffusion as highlighted by Robert Redfield.

therefore, modernization may lead to development depending on other factors.

and its challenges.

(Eg) Rousseau in his book 'social contract' ~~that~~ argued general will of people is superior than monarchs.

③ Emergence of public sphere → Habermas argued it as sociology developed out of critical public debate. Modernity induces general public discussion, thereby shaping intellectual union.

④ Reformist orientation in U.S.A → Modernity matured as discipline in USA with intellectuals focussed on particular issues like child labour.

(Eg) W.E.B. Du Bois studied impact of race.

⑤ Intellectuals like Abbe saint Pierre and Gianbattista influenced by modernity, studied sociology.

Q.3) (a) Discuss the connection between the crisis of modernity and the origins of sociological thought. (20 marks)

Modernity refers to a process of new changes in traditional social thoughts and instruments accompanied by processes like urbanization, democratization, industrialization etc.

The onslaught of modernity ushered in by intellectual forces like enlightenment (17-18th C), French revolution (1789-99), Industrial revolution and scientific revolution fundamentally changed the old European society and brought with it the crisis of modernity.

Sociology as a discipline emerged to study the following crisis caused by modernity

1) Rising rates of suicide - As old traditions of monarchy, religion and patriarchy lost relevance giving way to democracy, secularism and gender equality, European society according to Durkheim was in a state of anomie.

Anomie refers to a state where society and its institutions are unable to regulate the desires of individuals.

2) Urbanization & its problems - Industrial revolution saw a shift in the site of production from farmstead to factories in the cities.

This led to urbanization but was also associated with slum development, poor hygiene & sanitation and rising crime rates which interested thinkers like Durkheim, Comte etc to restore social order.

3) Changing Rising divorce rates → French revolution through writings of Mary Wollstonecraft championed women's rights. Women as a result challenged patriarchy and got freedom in the form of property rights, access to education and employment.

This also accompanied a rise in divorce rates, which was of concern to early sociologists.

4) Specialized division of labour & anomie - According to Marr, the specialized division of labour in modern society deprived workers of their joy of work causing alienation.

Sociology thus emerged as a discipline to study modernity and its fallouts.

3) Changing Rising divorce rates → French revolution through writings of Mary Wollstonecraft championed women's rights. Women as a result challenged patriarchy and got freedom in the form of property rights, access to education and employment.

This also accompanied a rise in divorce rates, which was of concern to early sociologists.

4) Specialized division of labour & anomie - According to Marr, the specialized division of labour in modern society deprived workers of their joy of work causing alienation.

Sociology thus emerged as a discipline to study modernity and its fallouts.

3) a) Discuss the connection between the crisis of modernity and the origin of sociological thought.

Renaissance in 14th century incultated new ideas and thinking. This acted as prelude to Enlightenment in 16th century Europe.

The enlightenment has new ideas and innovations in socio-political world of the society. Hitherto Godly position of king was questioned. Rationalism and empiricism which focused on reason, logic, experiments started questioning even religion.

This period saw rise of aspects like individualism, freedom, universalism among the society. Parallel growth in science lead to scientific revolution and new inventions.

These changes in addition with French Revolution focusing on liberty, equality, fraternity and Industrial Revolution focusing on mass production lead to modernity.

In the age of modernity, due to the changes, the social order was disturbed shaking social stability.

Enlightenment scholars like Rousseau, Montesquie advocated sense of justice in society. This created chaotic situation (social disorder)

To counter this situation, counter enlightenmentists or conservationists evolved. Emile Durkheim though emphasised freedom, recognised social anomie due to human freedom.

De Bonald, Edmund Burke advocated against the democracy and other liberal values. They tried to restore the disturbed social order.

At this point in time in the society, a new discipline to study the modernity and its fallouts emerged and is named as Sociology.

Thus, the disturbance of the time of crisis in modernity gave rise to the origin of sociological thought in modern Europe.

1. Write a short note on each of the following in not more than 150 words. 10 x 5 = 50 (a) The Enlightenment period was a significant contributing factor to the emergence of sociology in the late 18th and early 19th century. Discuss.

Sociology as a distinctive discipline emerged in 19th century^(c) - with Comte coining the term in 1839.

The nascent discipline was both - influenced & emerged as a reaction to Enlightenment.

Enlightenment period (18th & 19th c.) in Europe provided both - to sociology.

← Subject matter

→ Methods & perspective

Ⓐ subject matter :-

Enlightenment provided the basis for further changes, viz → French Revolution & Industrial Revolution, which altered the material, intellectual & political landscape.

→ Intellectual :- focus on individual

, new societal values like liberty, equality humanism.

Eg - Kant voiced for individual freedom & Objectivity.

⇒ Social : Emergence of modernity - urbanization, family nuclearisation, new form of stratification & social disorder.

⇒ Political : Emergence of nation states, inspired from thoughts like "social contract" of Hobbes.

② Methods : - focus on empiricism, emphasis on scientific method → all led to early Positivism in sociology.

Hence, as rightly pointed by Irving Zeitlin, early sociology developed as a reaction to Enlightenment.

Thought. (20)

A3.(a)

Sociological thought emerged as a result of the Age of Reason, where science and rational thinking reigned supreme.

CRISIS OF MODERNITY → social upheaval resulting from a set of new values and ideas known as modernity.

Connection between crisis of modernity and origins of sociological thought:

1. new values changed social institutions:

Eg: Aristocracy replaced by democracy, ideas of church supplanted by rational thought

2. Change in primary institutions: Eg: social life now revolved around school, work with secularisation and not the church.

3. Change in demographic composition :
Transition from agriculture to industry;

4. Change in organisation of work: eg: work faced alienation as a result.

It was this societal change that led to various scholars commenting on the changing nature of society and seeking to

1. August Comte: sought to study sociology changed social bonds. Eg: suicide rate increased

4. Max Weber : concerned regarding rationalisation and secularisation leading to building an 'iron cage' of rationality, devoid of emotion.

Thus, this zeal to improve society as it modernised was what led to the development of sociological thought.

It can be said that more than the positive fallouts of modernity (democracy, social contract, improved standard of living, mass production); it was the negative fallouts that attracted ~~for~~ philosophers to comment on it (increase in suicide and divorce rate, commodity fetishism, alienation etc.).

4.b) Sociology emerged in Europe and flourished to begin with on social reformist to begin with on social reformist orientation in the U.S.A". Comment. (20 marks)

Sociology is the systematic study of human society, having origins in Europe during 19th century.

Sociology Emerged in Europe in the following manner :-

- ① European society was in equilibrium and stable mode, regulated by church, tradition, family etc.
- ② Intellectual forces came up i.e, the forces which led to changes in the ideas thinking.
- ③ Renaissance :- Element of Humanism came up
 - enlightenment and scientific revolution :-
 - ideas of rational thinking; logic.
 - ④ Rousseau promoted constitutional / democracy
 - French Revolution (liberty, equality, fraternity, general will, so on etc)
 - * Industrial Revolution

① However, with the emergence of Modern idea came the fallout of Modernity - in terms of unintended consequences and chaos (e.g.) - high suicide rate, high divorce rate, degradation of work etc.

② Counter enlightenment - they were the revolutionaries which aims to restore social order in society.
(e.g.) - Karl Marx (critical), Munkhism (conservative)

③ Emergence of sociology - in Europe, to study dynamics of order & disorder in society.

→ European sociology was based on Major generalisation and theories (e.g.) - Talcott Parson, Munkhism etc.

Sociology flourished to different parts of the world, including USA.
(begin with chicago school of sociology.)

Social reformist orientation of sociology in USA :-

- ① Sociologist like Du Bois, studied racism and helped the black immigrants in USA.
- ② Janne Adams in USA studied poverty and hunger → also helped the hunger stricken women & children.
- ③ Robert Park and Burgess in study of slumisation and urban areas, helped the homeless people.
- ④ Thus, due to USA's historical conditions & issues — reformist sociology emerged whose aim was social change.
(Micro theories, not broad generalisation)

Thus, Michael Burman rightly called European sociology as professional and American sociology as public.

4. (b) Explain how the European Enlightenment created intellectual conditions for the birth of sociology. 20 political changes and the rise of intellectual values in Europe in 18th-19th Century AD.

Role of European Enlightenment in birth of sociology

1) The Enlightenment in Europe led to rise of rational and intellectual ideas.

A) Montessquiene theory of 'separation of power' provided for the demand to remove autocratic monarch.

(B) Rousseau ideas of "social contract" promoted values of welfare state and justice in society.

(C) Locke idea of right of life, liberty and property was instrumental in providing liberal ideas.

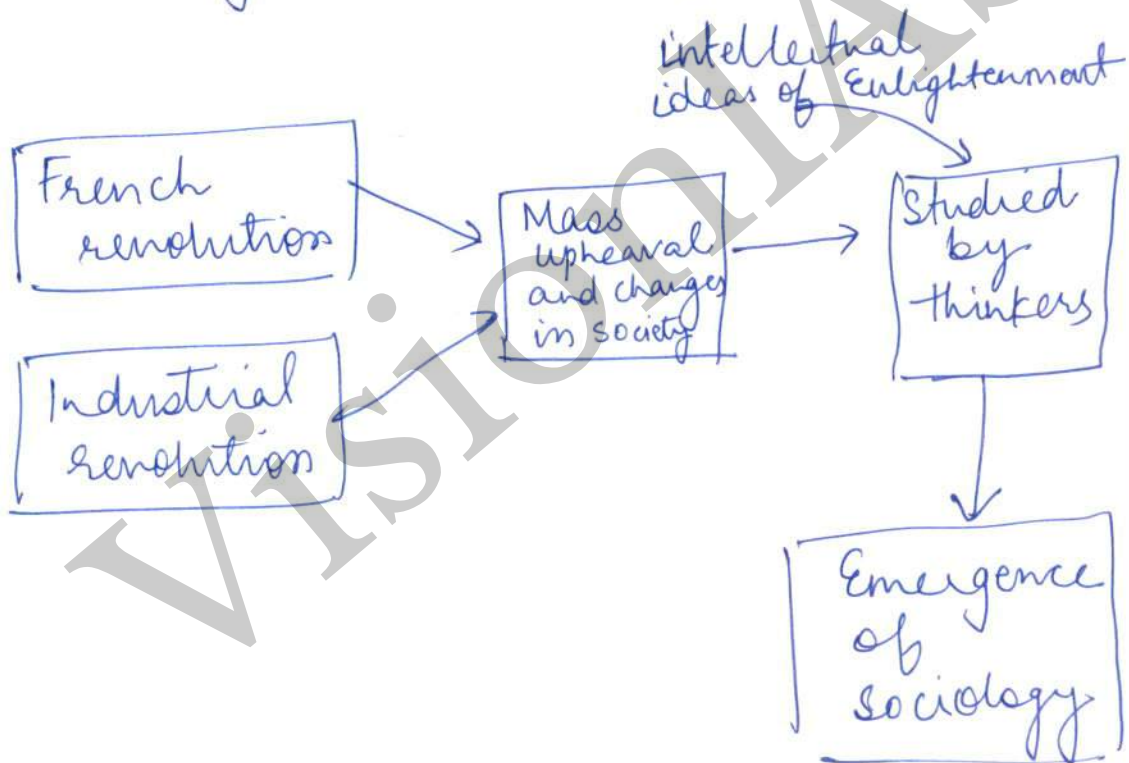

(2) The Enlightenment Period was also preceded by Renaissance in Europe which saw rise of culture and art forms.

(3) The intellectual ideas and the role of propagating views on human rights, nationalist thoughts and upholding dignity of individual paved way for French Revolution and commercial revolution through industrialisation.

- (4) Various scholars such as Saint Simon, Auguste Comte wanted to study the changes in society due to mass upheaval.
- (5) The rise of new social institutions and deterioration of earlier ties of family and society was studied through a systemic approach.
- (6) Comte gave a linear model of social evolution, while Spencer adopted the biological evolution of Darwin.
- (7) Thus intellectual ideas flourished and started to study society from the lens of positivism.

This intellectual revolution was key to study society with value-neutral concept of scientific research.

Thus, Enlightenment period along with other revolution led to emergence of sociology.

1. The change in intellectual orientation in Europe led to the emergence of sociology. Discuss. (10) of multiple changes, like Industrial Revolution, etc. However, the intellectual changes in Europe contributed to its emergence.

The intellectual changes in Europe came in multiple waves that diminished the role of religion and traditional beliefs for addressing social problems.

Renaissance in Italy in the 15th century marked a transition from Middle Ages towards modernity and propounded the ideas of humanism in society.

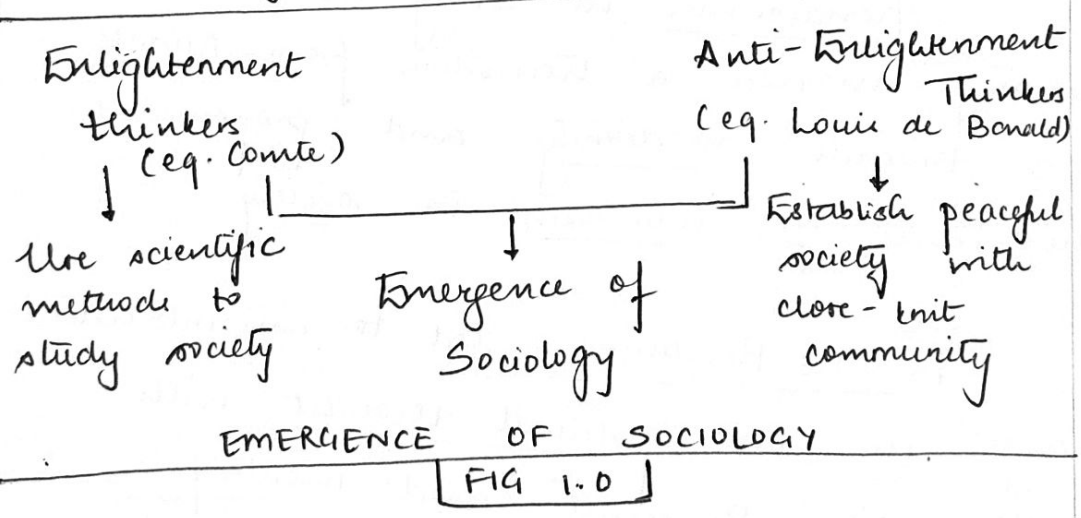

French Revolution led to an intellectual change in the political thought with scholars like Rousseau and Montesquieu who questioned the divinity of king and advocated for rights of citizens.

Enlightenment further led to the use of rationality and reason to propound social laws that required the development of a separate social discipline.

The culmination of all these events led to the advent of economic, political and ideological modernity fostering the emergence of sociology.

However, not all scholars were comfortable with the ideas of equality, liberty and democracy, like Louis de Bonald and Joseph de Maistre. They yearned for return to peace and social order.

Thus, as Irving Zeitlin propounds:
"Early sociology developed as a reaction to Enlightenment."

Sociology thus emerged as a discipline to address the emerging social issues arising due to social change in Europe. Its emergence was thus both event-pushed and thought-propelled.

1. "Emergence of sociology was not a mere coincidence." Comment. (10)

Revolution & Industrial Revolution

The changes began since the 14th century & continued through time :-

(1) Commercial Revolution :- Monarchy strengthened and church's role declined. Economy shifted from stagnant to dynamic system with discovery of sea routes.

(2) Scientific Revolution :- Copernican theory & Darwin's theory of evolution shattered the very foundations of old order & allowed the comparison of society with organism by Spencer. It questioned the role of religion & emphasized reason.

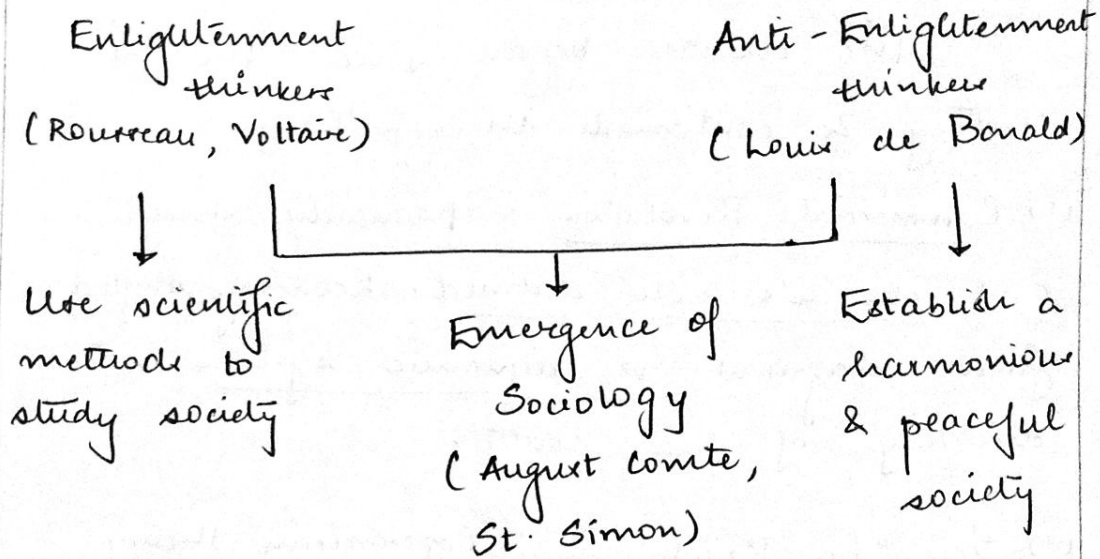

(3) French Revolution :- Questioned the Divine Rights of King & brought a change in the political order with change from subjects to citizens.

(4) Industrial Revolution :- Brought economic changes like factory system that led to rise of middle class, urbanisation and arrival of the capitalist system.

(5) Enlightenment :- Intellectual developments focused on the use of rationality & reason questioning the old ~~social~~ order. Irving

Zeitlin: "Early sociology developed as a reaction to enlightenment."

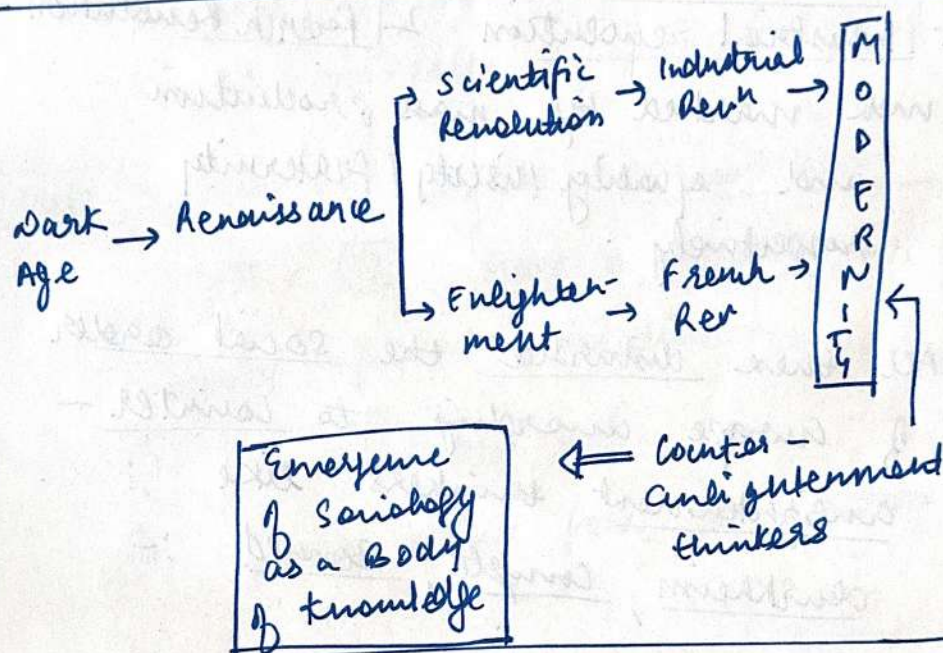

These social, economic, political & intellectual changes could lead to new social problems which could not be solved by the traditional religious knowledge.

Thus, sociology emerged as a new scientific discipline to understand the nature of society as its emergence was not a mere coincidence.

d) The social, political, economic and the intellectual conditions that were prevailing in Europe in the 18th century led to the emergence of Sociology.

18th century led to the emergence of Sociology.

Emergence of Sociology

* Renaissance - philosophical movement that restored trust in humanity (humanism, ex. Vinci's Mona Lisa)

* Scientific Revolution - time period characterised by use of logic, rationality and experimentation to study universe (debunking religious explanations)
ex. Copernicus - Heliocentrism.

U.P.S.C.

* Enlightenment → intellectual movement characterised by logic, rationality & experimentation in governance & polity / economy.

ex. Voltaire's free speech,

Wollstonecraft's → gender equality

Adam Smith - free market.

* Industrial Revolution & French Revolution were marked by mass production and equality / liberty / fraternity respectively.

All these disturbed the social order of Europe according to Counter-Enlightenment thinkers like Auerkheim, Comte, Bonald :-

- * Reign of Terror
- * ↑ Suicide, ↑ disease rates
- * Break down of joint family
- * Alienation

Therefore, sociology thus emerged as discipline to study challenges posed by Modernity and in an attempt to establish social order by Counter-Enlightenment thinkers.

1(d) What was so peculiar about Europe that led to Emergence of Sociology? Describe.

Sociology as a discipline originated in Europe as a product of contestation b/w the view of Enlightenment and Counter Enlightenment in Europe which were a product of various Intellectual forces that brought about changes in European society.

Events in Europe

(i) Renaissance

→ This was a silent revolution which brought about Humanism at the centre of fields of painting, drama, poetry and other art forms. Earlier they were all religious.

(ii) Scientific Revolution

→ It led to the ideal of rationality, empiricism, experimentation etc in the explaining of Universe.

(Eg) Copernicus → Heliocentric Universe

Kepler → elliptical orbit of Earth

Galileo → confirmed the theories of Copernicus and Kepler via Telescope

(iii) French Enlightenment

→ It led to the ideal of scientific enquiry, empiricism, rationality in the field of governance and administration

(Eg) Voltaire talked about Free Speech
Rousseau talked about General Will Wallstonecraft talked about Gender Equality etc.

P(v) French Revolution

- It gave the concepts of Equality, Liberty, Fraternity, Equal Voting Rights, Secularism.
- Religion lost its importance in the public sphere

(v) Industrial Revolution

- It led to factory system, standardised production, control over produce, sexual division of labour etc.

These Intellectual Forces led to Rise of Modernity which was a value system driven by the ideas above.

- There was a Counter-Enlightenment Movement against Modernity which ~~led~~ as per these scholars led to the breaking down of the social order and Anarchy.
- These are Conservatives like De-Bonald, De Maistre and Radicals like Karl Marx.

Thus these situations were peculiar in Europe and thus Emergence of Sociology led to the systematic study of these changes and various sociological phenomenon from various perspectives.

1.e) How well do you think Tonnies, Durkheim, Weber and Marx predicted the character of modern society? Critique. (10)

Modernity is a recent phenomenon however it is not a universal fixed phenomenon. Each region has its own conception of Modernity.

- Various scholars like Tonnies, Durkheim, Weber, Marx expressed their view on the character of Modern Society in context of European Modernity

Ferdinand Tonnies

- He gave the concepts of Gemeinschaft and Gesellschaft
- As per Tonnies, a modern society is characterised by associational difference where individuals are different and associated with each other and thereby interdependent on each other (Gesellschaft).

critique: Tonnies fails to account that the associational difference were also present in traditional societies where different professions depended on each other.

- Also ~~the way~~ he gives a simplistic explanation of a complex modern society.

Durkheim

- He talks of the phenomenon of Anomie present in modern society in Europe characterised by lawlessness, crime, lack of social order and chaos.

critique: Durkheim was a political liberal and social conservative whose findings were confined to French Society but conditions were different in other European societies.

→ Durkheim also prophesized about the future of modern society!

Karl Marx

→ Marx characterised the modern society as the product of class control over the factors of production and antagonistic class relationship. Bourgeoisie and Proletariat were the two classes and the society was based on control over the economic base by the bourgeoisie.

critique: Marx failed to account for the changing nature of Capitalism in European society and the role of Middle class, elements of cooperation b/w various classes. He also prophesized about Revolution and arrival of Communism.

Max Weber

→ He opined the modern society comprising of Law or rule-based order, Legal-Rational Authority and presence of Bureaucracy.

critique: Weber ignored elements of charismatic leaders present in modern society, corruption present in bureaucracy while religion playing a dominant role in law formation.

Thus various scholarly views on the character of Modern Society improves the understanding of it from ~~various~~ diverse perspectives and enrich the discipline of Sociology.

1(a) Describe the history of Sociology as a discipline (10/150)

Ans Sociology emerged as a discipline in Europe as a response and reaction to European Modernity — (Ideological, Political and Technological)

Sociology emerged in France, spread to Germany, U.K. and to other parts of Europe. It spread to USA after that and eventually to other parts of the ~~world~~ world.

Early Sociologists considered Sociology as an all-inclusive discipline — (Synthetic School) and considered Macro approach where the scope of sociology was unlimited covering all domains of social life and large societies including all its structures, institutions and other parts. Example Durkheim Subsequently there emerged another view in form of Formalist School comprising scholars like Georg Simmel and Weber who opined micro approach to study sociological phenomenon as Social Reality is vast, dichotomous and unlimited. Hence sociology emerged as subjective understanding of objective Reality.

Contemporary Sociologists study various events of current times like technology, globalisation, Robotics, Social Media and are flexible in their approach to apply Macro or Micro analysis depending on their scope and content of the research.

Some scholars celebrated the rise of such modernity and favoured sociology focus on it eg. Spencers.

Some scholars were skeptical of the modernity and advocated going back to old times eg. De-Bonald and De-Maistre.

Most of the scholars used the discipline to study various changes, identify the various crises and give a logical explanation to it.

[eg] Durkheim's concept of ~~Anomie~~ ^{anomie}

Thus Sociology can be termed as the child of revolution.

Q 1(d) Discipline of sociology, emerged as a result of social problems caused by modernisation in Europe.

by modernisation in Europe.

Why in Europe?

European society underwent period of Renaissance (14th - 17th c) and enlightenment (17th - 18th c). During this period following changes took place:

① Political ideas :- social contract theory, separation of power by Montesquieu, Locke, Rousseau, awakened people.

② Scientific discoveries :- People were no longer dependent on religion for explanation of various phenomenon. Scientific method became the authentic means of knowledge.

eg → Dissection of human body - to gather biological knowledge.

③ commercial revolution :- Market mechanism, banking system, debt market etc. were the innovations that boosted European trade and made the society prosper.

④ Spirit of enquiry :- Adventurers like Vasco-de-gama and Columbus discovered important colonies of India and America, which further enriched Europeans - economically as well as emotionally.

These reforms led to historic French revolution (1789-99) and Industrial revolution (1760-1840). These revolutions created social problems such as - overcrowding of cities, slums, nuclearisation of family, increasing crime rates etc. Sociology emerged as a quest of its founding fathers to solve these problems.

Q 1(e) Different sociologists, using their unique perspectives, made varying predictions regarding modern society.

predictions

Durkheim:

In his work, 'The division of labour in society', Durkheim characterised modern society as following:

- ① high division of labour
- ② high level of solidarity
- ③ secularisation in society

criticism:-

- ① high DoL has not led to organic solidarity rather it has created high levels of inequality.
- ② In some sphere of life, there is secularisation but Religious fundamentalism, has overshadowed it.

eg Taliban in Afghanistan.

Weber

He predicted

- ① Swelling in ranks of middle class

UPSC

- ① rationalization of society
- ② spread of bureaucracy

Critique

while Weber has mostly been proved right but there are certain exceptions:

- ① bureaucracy is not as efficient as he claims.

eg in India, public sector organisations are not as efficient as private sector (having flexible structure)

Marr

He predicted

- ① establishment of communism
- ② class polarisation → true class consciousness
- ③ class struggle is inevitable

critique:

- ① Eastern block countries, that experimented with communism, have largely been unsuccessful.

- ② heterogenisation of working class.

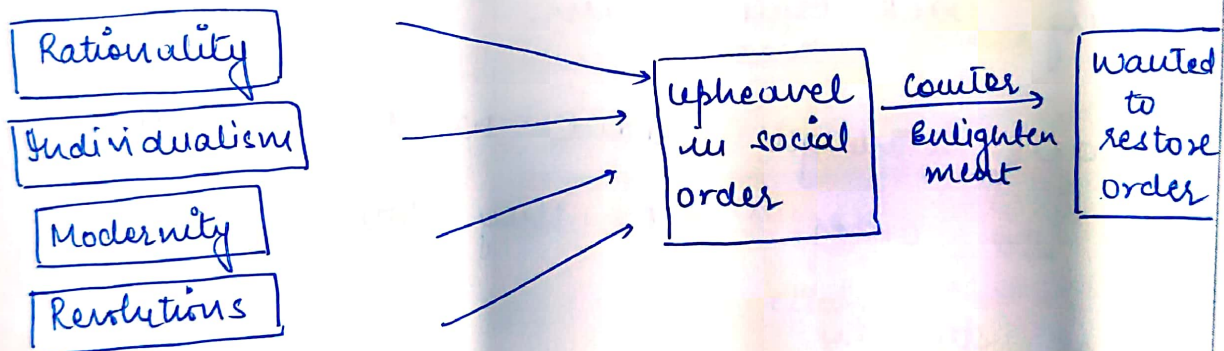

- ③ no class struggle till date.

Merton called Marr's prediction as 'self-defeating prophecy', due to which capitalists have undergone course-correction.

Question 1. Discuss How counter enlightenment provided goal for sociology.

also contributed to sociology because these thinkers wanted to return to old social order and social stability.

Counter-Enlightenment providing goal for Sociology :-

① Goal for sociology was to return to old order and stability of social structure. Ex - De Bonald was against 'reason', 'individualism'.

② Sociologist aim was to understand Social change $\Rightarrow$ critique about it $\Rightarrow$ return to old order

Ex- Industrialisation led to urban slums, enslavement of women $\Rightarrow$ reform required

③ New Political theory of "Social Contract", "General Will" were against divine will. Sociology should identify loopholes in it to bring back Equilibrium.

④ Some although didn't want to return to old order, but they too aspired for social stability.

Thus, Counter-Enlightenment Ideas also contributed to the rich diversity of Sociological knowledge.

Q.1) Write notes on the following in about 150 words each: 1.a Modernity should be seen in the light of its historical context. Explain the origin & nature of modernity in Indian society.

Modernity refers to change in culture, values, institutions and ideology brought by agents of social change.

good intro with def'n

The Enlightenment, French Revolution, Industrial Revolution and various intellectual forces formed the historical context of European modernity.

nice background

ORIGIN of MODERNITY IN INDIAN SOCIETY

• Medieval India was considered a traditional feudal society with little advancements in science and technology.

good pts with explanation

• HISTORICAL CONTEXT of Indian modernity is linked to the direct outcome of British rule.

• The Britishers introduced modern legal system, scientific education, modern bureaucracy.

NATURE of MODERNITY in INDIAN SOCIETY

- Indian modernity was different from western modernity.
- It was not uniform and had varied reactions from different sections.
- Urbanization and industrialization could not disrupt the collectivistic nature of society (eg: joint family took new forms)
- Traditional institutions like caste still persisted and adapted to the situation.
- Democracy was introduced without inculcating the democratic values.

Thus Indian modernity is highly heterogenous with some scholars calling it particularistic modernization (KL Sharma) and some terming it Mistaken modernity (Dipankar Gupta)

TONNIES, DURKHEIM, WEBER and MARX predicted a modern society having some general characters as above.

TONNIES advocated change from "gemeinschaft" (community) to gesellschaft (individualism) which can be observed in present day migration and reducing role of family or community.

nice lot with application of knowledge

DUKKHEIM believed in High division of labour which can be observed in present day, job specialization, differentiation and dependency.

WEBER advocated rise of rationality in modern society which is visible in the form of scientific temper and democratic values.

MARX predicted the rise of exploitative capitalism leading to class differentiation.

THE TRUE OBSERVABLE character of Modern Society

1. Community living still present in many modern societies and the rise of ethnic society has brought people closer.
2. Complex division of labour is being observed with gender, caste and class differentiation running counter to modern society ideas.
3. Personal biases influencing rationality in bureaucracy.
4. Capitalism opposing to welfare orientation with rise of labour laws, trade unions etc.

Hence prediction by the above scholars can only act as a model to study humanity.
