Socio-cultural anthropology

Similarities between Socio-cultural Anthropology and Sociology

- ↳ Both study society and its social institutions like marriage, religion, family, polity, economic organisation
- ↳ Both study changes in these and their relevance in current times.

Differences

Socio-cultural Anthro
— Study tribal societies
majorly

Sociology
— Study rural and urban societies

Socio-cultural Anthropology

- Use fieldwork and participant-observation to understand societies using emic approach
- linkages established with other branches of anthropology leading to holistic study

Sociology

- don't use fieldwork that often

However today → Socio cultural anthropology has also diversified its scope to rural and urban societies and Sociology has started studying tribals too using fieldwork

Thus, differences are fading away.

Comparing both subjects is no more relevant and interpersonal interdisciplinary approach is needed
