

The phenomenon of catch up growth was first described by Prader et al. (1963)

(d) Catch-Up Growth

Catch up growth is the compensatory growth in a person which was suppressed due to various reasons.

Reasons for suppression of growth improper nutrition deficiency

genetic disorder

environment stress.

Other factors

Factors affecting catch-up growth

1 Celiac Disease

2 GH Deficiency

3 Hypothyroidism

4 Intra-uterine

Growth Retardation

Show catchup

Catch up may be complete or incomplete