

Case study of Todas of Nilgiris by [HNR Rivers]

Change in 'ideals'

- ① Religion : saved hut with a hearth burning → declined after colonial invasion
- ② Politically : structure of village headman declined → power reduced
- ③ Economic : pastoralism has turned to settled cultivation
- ④ Kinship : Ties weakened over time
- ⑤ Family / marriage : Bow & Arrow ceremony less seen
- ⑥ Social practices : decline of child mortality due to reduced female infanticide

Reason → education / convert practices
→ Tribe caste continuum → increased interaction with modern world

Globalization is the free flow of ideas, economy, individuals etc across countries of the world.

Changes in some tribes Negative

- ① Goods of MP : alcoholism / drug addiction increased
- ② Yanomami tribes : Gold mining illegally → frequent conflict with outsiders
↓
death
- ③ Ibo of Nigeria : breakdown of market ring practices
- ④ Maladaptation to technology :
sedentary lifestyles, (diabetes, HIV)
from fast food etc
- ⑤ Loss of cultural capital : indigenous pharmacopias lost to 'biopiracy'
(eg) Turmeric patented in USA.

Positive changes

- ① Transmission of their grievances across media → increased pressure for government to alleviate concerns
- ② Nayanigiri hills against Vedanta-Polco
- ③ Improved access to resources
↳ through market mechanism
- ③ Increased economic prospects →
Selling of Tribal MP on 'Tribal' portal
- ④ Higher allocation of capital to tribal processes PM JANMAN →
component of scholarships to tribal children abroad

While the march of technology of globalisation is inevitable, integration (Nehru's Tribal Parichay) must be preferred over the National Park theory of Elwin or assimilation approach of Ghurye so Tribals can make their own decisions.
