(b) Distinguish between Pluralism and Multiculturalism.

(10 Marks)

Pluralism can be defined as the presence of people of various ethnicities, religion, language, region, etc in a particular Society.

mere presence does not make it a plural society for instance $\Rightarrow$ India is a plural country, because it has

Diversity of ethnicities

Naga
Toda
Bhils

Diversity of Religion

Hinduism
Islam
Christianity

Diversity of languages

Hindi
Malayalam
Marathi, etc

Pluralism:

- Multiple groups
- Silent about status

- No constructive interaction

- presence of Tolerance

Multiculturalism can be defined as the coming up of various cultures together and living peacefully and in solidarity.

Multiculturalism is a wider concept than pluralism. It not only encompasses pluralism your idea of multiculturalism is good but you can also mention the following but take a step ahead and encourage the diverse set of people to multiculturalism maintain solidarity, unity and tolerance towards each other. There is a constant interaction for instance :- when different religions religious people in India will live in peace and harmony it will be known as Multiculturalism. No group is dominant emphasis on equality

- appreciates diversity

Today Multiculturalism is required more than pluralism due to increased intolerance between people belonging to different ethnicities.

Increased Regionalism, Communalism and ethnic movements can be prevented if we can inculcate multiculturalism in our Society,

because a society is known by how it treats its minorities.
