

(Don't Write anything in this Area)

(b) Distinguish between Pluralism and Multiculturalism. (10 Marks)

Multiculturalism is the phenomenon where multiple cultures meet and interact with each other at a common place.

Eg. Modern cities like New York, London, Delhi are multi-cultural due to globalisation and diffusion of cultures.

Pluralism is the phenomenon where many cultural traits are present in the culture. Though the society is one, it contains the traits of many cultures. This occurs mainly due to prolonged and pronounced diffusion.

Multiculturalism is due to migration and contact between different cultures. It is often seen in trade centres, big cities etc. Pluralism is due to the infusion of different cultural traits due to diffusion. This occurs in places of cultural contact such as ports etc.

Pluralism also is enhanced due to ruling class patronizing one culture while the subjects following the other. In a pluralistic society, the society acts as one where all persons experience pluralistic cultural traits.

While in multiculturalism, the society has all the cultures working independently but interacting with each other. Multi-culturalism is a mosaic of cultures.

Today's diffusionary patterns lead to multiculturalism & pluralism which also is leading to friction between cultures.