(e) Cultural Universals and particulars

EB Tylor in his book 'Primitive culture (1871)' defined culture as a complex whole which consists of moral, values and customs learnt by man as a member of society.

Franz Boas through his theory of historical particularism argued that culture is evolved through different historic processes. Hence, each culture is diverse & different. These different element of particular culture are called cultural particulars eg: Joint Family system in India

Similarly evolutionists like EB Tylor, LH Morgan talked about unilineal evolution & gave the concept of psychic unity of mankind. They argued some,

Elements of culture are universal, These are called cultural universal.

eg: institution of marriage, family.

* Elements of cultural universals are dynamic and may change. This leads to cultural variations.

For eg: monogamy among ^{Hindu} ~~Indian~~ society
v/s polygyny among Muslims.

Hence, cultural universal and particulars are two ~~st~~ important aspects of culture.
