

Q.3b (15 marks): Discuss the impact of Feminist and Women liberation movements on Marriage and Family

(Don't Write anything in this Area)

- 3.b) Discuss the impact of Feminist and Women liberation movements on Marriage and Family. (15 marks)

Feminist movements starting with the Temperance movement [England 18th century] to suffragette movement [USA 19th century] have evolved to impact the social institutions of Marriage & Family.

Feminist Anthropologists (e.g. Simone Beauvoir ('Second Sex'), Julia Worell, Abu Lughod) postulate that the advancement of women as a class was suppressed by forces of social institution (e.g. law, patriarchy etc)

Impact of movements on Marriage

In India, feminist movements started with men espousing rights (I.C. Vidyasagar, Phule, B.S. Jambhakar, D.K. Karve) → led to improved legislative action in field of marriage

→ Age of Consent Act, 1891 → ~~Consent~~ increased age to 14 →

→ Widow Remarriage Act, (1857) → allowed women a second chance

R.R Roy's sati bhinny (1828) improved women's marital prospects

Jarale Devi Chaudhary (Bharata Stree Mahamandal) fought for women's right to choose their groom opposite parental wishes

Structural changes

- ① More individuality initiative by women → increased divorce rate
- ② Recognition of motherhood through adoption → single working mother.
- ③ Matrilocal families → C. African Negroes [T. Goody says absentee fathers]
- ④ higher rights guaranteed legally SC in property inheritance (all coparcenary rights available with women)

Changes in family

- ① Neolocal family : Away from patrilocal set up (eg) Individualised society
- ② DINK couple : Double income
no kids
- ③ "situationship / live in couple" → heightened informal-family formation
- ④ filiocentricism → child centre of world

The self determination of women has spawned an entire branch of Anthropology called feminist Anthropology that reviews the world through the feminine lens to reunderstand man (women) and his world (Gubar & Gubar)
