

(Don't Write
anything in this Area)

- (c) Discuss different forms of preferential marriages with examples from tribal societies in India. (15 marks)

"Preferential marriage" refers to set of rules and regulations which determine the pool of individuals more likely to be chosen available for marriage purposes in a society.

⇒ These regulations are preferred in society for various reasons:-

⇒ Maintain purity of Blood in social sense.

⇒ To avoid division of property.

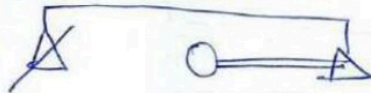

⇒ Strengthen societal relations and safeguard to social customs and traditions.

⇒ Violation of such rules doesn't entail social sanctions as they are only recommendatory in nature.

good and useful in short as this is not the main demand of question

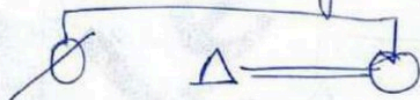

Forms of Preferential marriages:-

① Levirate: - ^{women} Marrying deceased husband's Brother. e.g. Ho's & Brach's.

- To Safeguard Bride price
- To ensure children remain part of society.

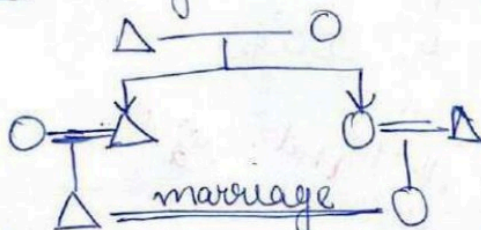

② Sororate: - Man marrying deceased wife's sister e.g. Santhals.

- For social protection of children.
- Protection of conjugal ties & Kinship.

③ Cross Cousin marriage: -

- Marriage between ~~off~~ children of Opposite Siblings.

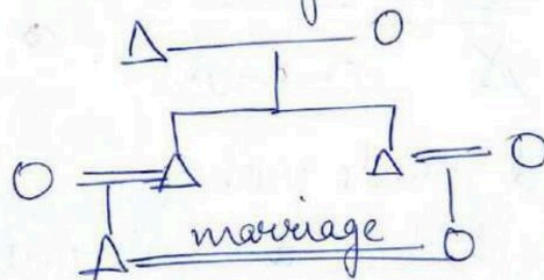

Patrilateral or 658 cousin marriage

add example into each type and you may explain that.

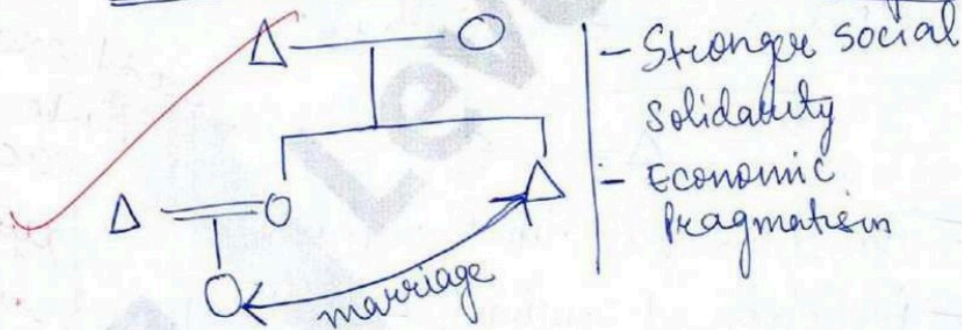

④ Parallel Cousin marriage :-

- Marriage between children of same or parallel sibling's.

e.g. Sheikh's of Lucknow
Ahmediya's of UP

⑤ Niece - uncle marriage :- Toda's of Nilgiri

- Stronger social solidarity
- Economic pragmatism

Such marriage regulations are undertaken mainly for greater social solidarity & stronger kinship bonds; to prevent disintegration of society.

repeated with context related you may write how such marriages are bringing changes into that.

4.0