

L2A™

15

Do not write anything in this margin

(c) Write note on marriage regulations

Marriage regulations refers to process which regulates the nature, structure and function of marriage.

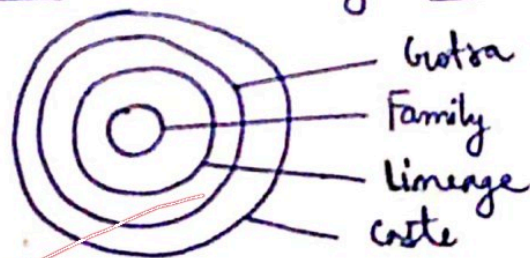

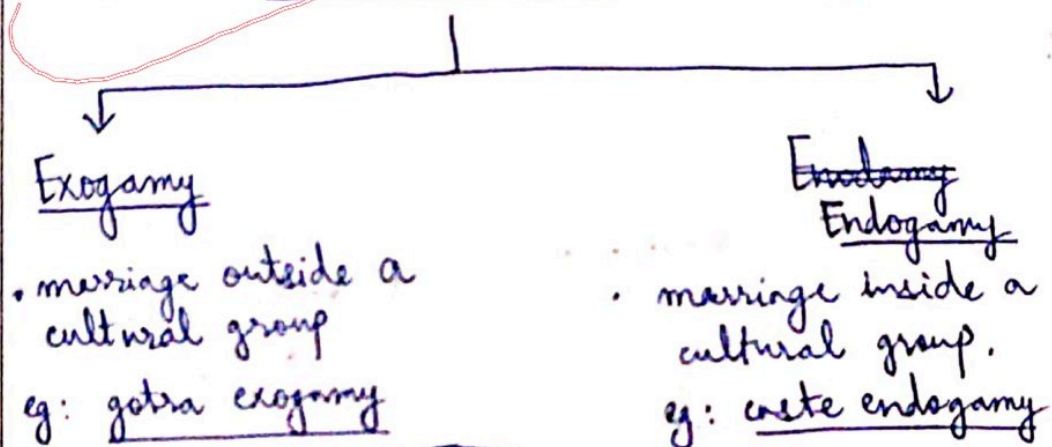

Needham (1962) gave marriage regulations in society as:

- 1) Proscriptive norms: These are the norms which prohibit marriage between specific social relations and further prohibits mating between two.
eg: Father-daughter incest is a taboo in most societies.

Δ → male ○ → female
= → marriage
□ → siblings.

2) Prescriptive norms : These norms are to be strictly followed. Breaking these may entail social sanctions. Two types.

3) Preferential norms : These are the norms which provide preferences for marriage

Two types

- cousin marriage
 - cross cousin
 - parallel
- levirate - sororate

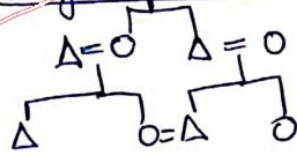

L2A™

Do not write
anything in this margin

Cross cousin
marriage

→ marriage between
children of siblings
of opposite sex

eg: Tlingit of Alaska

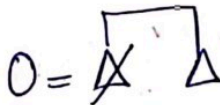

parallel
cousin

→ marriage between
children of siblings
of same sex

eg: Bedouin of Arabia

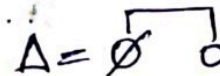

Levirate

person marries
to deceased brother's wife.

eg: Kaduna of Nigeria

Sororate

person marries to sister of deceased
wife.

eg: Chirachua Apache

However due to increasing industrialisation & modernisation, these marriage regulations are also fast changing.

8