(b) Critically examine kinship terminologies

Kinterms are different terms which are used to classify kins. For eg: 'pitaji' for father and 'mata' for mother.

LH Morgan in his work 'System of consanguinity and Affinities of Family (1872)' classify kin terms into two types:

- 1) Descriptive : different term for different kin.
- 2) Classificatory
 - i) Malayan type: merging all collaterals
eg: mother's sister as mother father's brother as father
 - ii) A North American type: merging some collaterals

* Hybrid and basic

Criticism

- 1) As per 'Kroeber', the mere differentiation between classificatory and descriptive is not sufficient.
- 2) Malinowski: kinship algebra is rather confusing and complicated.
- 3) Radcliffe Brown: many other sociological processes affect kin terms too. For eg: levirate and sororate may have given rise to Trognais type.

- 4) Kin terms are not merely sociological rather they also include psychological processes
- 5) Kin terms are also derived from various historical development

Hence, Murdock and Lowie gave a classification factors that may affect the nomenclature of kin terms.
