

1.b) Division of Labour by Gender

Division of labour is the concept used to measure in economic production.

Division of Labour^(DOL) by Gender

DOL by gender is when work is divided between two sexes. Both the genders having pre-determined role to play in economic production.

EXAMPLE In hunters and gatherers economy like that of Australian aboriginals, great Andamanese.

Societies practising DOL by gender

- Hunters and gatherers
- Pastoralist Example: Yodas.

Characteristics

- This sort of division is found in subsist

once economy.

- Technology is primitive.
- Less surplus.

Social: Less population

- More mobile.
- Band societies.

Historical context

The evolutionary story of human also shows DOL by gender in Neanderthals.

Present condition:

In modern society and economy too, few works is in exclusive domain of household women.

In modern household too, we can see DOL by gender.

Explain with Example.

Women combat role

Biological theory
- Mass & weight
- Child care
- Expendability

Cultural theory
- Margaret Mead's
sex & temperament in 3 primitive soc.

Watch Discussion
lectures

sl/2