

L2A™

10

Do not write anything in this margin

(d) Chiefdom in tribal society

Chiefdom is a type of political organisation for the maintenance of social order in the society.

It marks a transition between stateless and state societies.

Features

- 1) It has defined territories without defined boundaries. It has defined frontiers.
- 2) Chief in tribal wields the political power and is often the head of society

also add my hypothesis also ✓

10

The Emergence of Chiefdom

L2A™

Do not write anything in this margin

3) Chief is responsible for redistribution of goods.

The goods are collected at common administrative center, then redistributed equally.

4) Chiefdom societies are often stratified in nature.

5) Chief of Polynesian tribes often lives a lavish life and have a high position in society.

6) He is also responsible for resolving disputes among tribe members. The main aim of justice is not to punish guilty but to maintain harmony.

Chiefdom in tribal society also experiencing vast change due to cultural contact & penetration of modern technology.