(a) National Character Studies

National Character studies emerged out of Culture Personality School that aimed to apply psychology to study of culture and gain GROUP PERSONALITY.

Emerging of studies: During world war 2 it was done to elucidate "character" of nations.

Ruth BENERICT NATION CHARACTER STUDIES:-

- 1) She defined in "CHRYSANTHEMUM AND THE SWORD" that it is the character of a nation as embodied in its people.
- 2) It is the ideals, traditions and traits so widespread that they form patterns of culture in the nation.

STUDY OF JAPAN:-

as Chrysanthemum: She said Japanese children are trained in a delicate manner, with love and tenderness. This changes as they grow Sword :- refers to the ~~the~~ meaning in adulthood. They are taught to be distant, aggressive and alert. They act as though there is a SWORD on their head. This explains their CURT, laconic distant character. SHE USED CONTENT ANALYSIS - INTERVIEWS, MAGAZINES.

MARGARET MEAD = "Keepin' Your Powder Dry" :-

Another study, was done by Mead. She compared - JAPANESE, RUSSIAN, AMERICAN babies and said that culture has a role in National Character.

Other studies :- Q & Qore in "The People of Russia" said swaddling makes Russians quiet and distant.

Criticisms of Studies :- Lundsfield and Strauss said they lack empirical data, small pool of informants and biased analysis.

Francis Hsu has created concept of "CORE PERSONALITY" that pays attention to values of a culture than overall character.
