

5.e) Idea of Oscillating Equilibrium by Edmund Leach

Edmund Leach belongs to the structuralist school of anthropology which considers culture to be an abstract entity engraved in the minds of people.

He gives the idea of oscillating equilibrium to show how ~~between~~ many cultural variables keep moving between opposite ends of the spectrum without being restricted to either.

He demonstrates the same among Kachins of Burma who have two political systems namely Chungking and hereditary and other egalitarian but they choose to stay in Burma system which is an equal combination of both.

Further he also gives a traffic signal study where orange is an equilibrium
