

L2A™

15

Do not write anything in this margin

(b) Write a note on the social context of language use

As per Bernard Bloch & Tragger, language is a system that contains vocal or written symbols through which a social group communicates.

Sociolinguistics is an approach where the effect of society is measured in the way language is used.

Various theories for social context of language use

1) Speech community

- These are discrete groups which have developed their own style of language with the help of slang and Jargons.

2) Class differences : By Clifford Geertz

- As in his study of Jawa, he realised as we move from simple societies to aristocrat class, language starts becoming homogeneous

L2A™

Do not write anything in this margin

3) Social aspirations : William Labov

- As society make transition from lower level to higher level, their language tends to shift towards those at higher level.
- It ~~is~~ has been seen in case of Sanskritisation-Westernisation as given by MN Srinivas.

4) Social colour categories - Bernstein

- i) Restricted colour category: have strong bonds and 'we feeling'. eg: simple societies.
 - ii) Elongated colour category: formal relationship, more of 'I' feeling. eg: modern societies.
- 5) Status differences : ~~This~~ The difference in use of language can be seen in different statuses of the society.

L2A™

Do not write anything in this margin

6) Age differences: The social content of language can be seen at different age groups. While younger people use more slang, older people use more sophisticated language.

7) Gender differences: As per William Labov, males are more aggressive in language use than females. This is explained by the cultural differences between the both genders as well.

Hence, it can be said various factors affect the use of language in social content. The use of social media have facilitated diffusion of ideas which have further increased usage of different language.

(8)