(b) Study of cultures at a distance

EB Tylor in his work 'The Primitive Culture (1871)' defined culture as a system of beliefs, norms, rules and other activities learned by man as a member of society.

1) Non-participant method involves that the observer studies culture from a distance.

2) Etic approach used by Malvin Harris while giving cultural materialism

- studying culture at distance from observer point of view.

3) Questionnaire involves sending forms via mail. ~~into them~~ which are then filled by respondents

- ↳ less time & resources
- ↳ large info can be collected
- ↳ data manipulation is difficult.

Limitations → questions can be misunderstood

- ↳ cannot be applied on illiterate populations
- ↳ Mails may not be returned back.
